Rick Penfold, Wallbridge Gilbert Aztec

"So, while Nexia Edwards Marshall certainly manage all the vital day to day tax accounting work, like our annual tax calculations and tax returns, they're much more than that.

They play an integral part in more strategic and complex projects, which is where our strong relationship, and the trust and in-depth knowledge that stems from that, really comes into its own."

Who we are

When we look at businesses, and the people in them, we see potential. We don't just see where you are, we see where you could be. We don't just see problems, we see opportunities. What excites us is our client's success, because we get to grow alongside them. And while we're in the business of accountancy and advice, we're actually in the business of people — because we believe that when great people are aligned, great things happen.
